Adaptive Teaching: Train the trainer

Designed by Ambition Institute and facilitated by Exceed Academies Trust, the Adaptive Teaching: Train the Trainer programme is designed to empower school leaders to deliver high-quality professional development in adaptive teaching. Over 18 weeks, participants engage in a blend of online conferences and twilight sessions, gaining the expertise needed to support teachers in meeting the diverse needs of their pupils.

The programme's content is rooted in the latest educational research and evidence-informed practice. School leaders will learn how to deploy effective professional development, design context-specific resources, and evaluate the impact of adaptive teaching within their schools. Key areas include formative assessment, responsive teaching strategies, and the provision of meaningful feedback to pupils.

Benefits for schools are substantial. Leaders will deepen their expertise and extend their influence through a train-the-trainer model, ensuring that professional development is both high quality and aligned with national frameworks such as the Early Career and National Professional Qualification standards. Teachers will be better equipped to support all pupils, including those with SEND, leading to improved outcomes across the board.

By participating, school leaders can be confident that their training offer is engaging, impactful, and underpinned by the Ambition Institute's programmes are designed to equip educators to tackle the challenges they face. Their approach is based on sound evidence of what really works, providing practical tools to make an even bigger impact, in the classroom and across the school.
